NUMBER 21. MAY 24, 1907, NORWAY, MAINE. VOLUME XXXVIII

Drowned Near Buck's Dam.

Arthur F. Hutchins was drowned in "the bog" of Lake Penesseewassee, Saturday afternoon. He had been having his canoe repaired at Hosmer's in the "Taylor & Tarr" boat house and was taking it across to where he kept the canoe on Judge W. F. Jones' shore. The Hosmer boy found the canoe overturned and floating near the shore where the canoe was usually kept about 5 o'clock. His coat and derby hat had caught on the seat and had not fallen out. Search was immediately begun and after it became dark torches and search lights were used, but it was not till seven o'clock Sunday morning that the body was found near Buck's dam in about 11 feet of water. Ned Cross' boat was the one that found it about half way between the point of land and Buck's dam. Underneath the boat was a small box containing a letter to the body. When he went out of sight around the point he had on his hat and coat. It is not known how he happened to overturn the canoe, but it is supposed that he might have had a sudden attack of illness. His watch had stopped at 4:25 o'clock. It was six o'clock before the news of the accident was known in the village.

Mr. Hutchins was the son of John F. and Sabra E. (Witham) Hutchins. He was a young man 26 years old, of fine character, and was employed as an edge trimmer in B. F. Spilney & Co.'s shoe factory. He left the shoe factory and went up to the boat house to get his canoe and started with it across to his landing about 4 o'clock.

Arthur Francis Hutchins was born in Oxford, June 11, 1880. He lived in Oxford till 11 years of age and since that time has lived at Norway. He went to school at Oxford and Norway. He attended the Universalist church.

The funeral was from the home on Pleasant street, Tuesday at 1 o'clock, Rev. S. G. Davis being the clergyman.

Mrs. Alvin Brown.
Mrs. Ada M. (Carle) Brown, wife of Alvin Brown, died at her home, the Gibson farm near Norway Center, Wednesday, May 15, after an illness of a few days.

Mrs. Brown was born in Hollis, Oct. 3, 1854, the daughter of Timothy L. and Elizabeth J. Carle and lived there until her marriage to Mr. Brown, June 11, 1878. She was educated in the schools of her native town. She was a member of the Christian Endeavor and was a constant life attendant of the Advent and Congregational churches and Sabbath school. She was a member of Norway Grange, P. O. H.

She is survived by her husband and four children, Fred S. Brown, manager of a dry goods establishment at Portland; Elton L. Brown, a farmer at North Norway and present master of Norway Grange; Viola M. Brown, a dressmaker at Norway; and Carl L. who lives at home; besides other more distant relatives and a great many friends.

Mrs. Brown was particularly gifted in music and song and was always ready to entertain all gatherings that she attended, where music was desired, by her pleasing gift.

The funeral was from the residence, Saturday, Mrs. Jessie Jordan and Rev. B. S. Kildout being the attending ministers. There were beautiful flowers: Pines, Norway Center Church. Bouquet of pinks—Children. Bouquet—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross. Wreath—Brothers and Sisters. Basket of flowers—Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Frost. Bouquet of pinks—Christian Endeavor. Bouquet—Portland Clerks. Bouquet of roses—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smiley.

Pines—Lizzie E. Foss. Roses—Marion C. Foss. Pillow of May-flowers—Mrs. F. P. Towne. Bouquet—Mr. and Mrs. Zenas Mills. Bouquet—Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Berry. Bouquet of pinks—Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Brooks. Bouquet—E. H. Noble.

Norway Neath the Stars and Stripes.
A flag-pole was raised on the highest point of Jim Hill, Monday. T. L. Heath was the master workman, ably assisted by Ansel Millett, Joseph Lary, David Thurston and two horses. They started in to do the job, Saturday, but the chains, ropes, etc., were not strong enough and they had to go equipped, Monday, with stronger.

The pole was out by Leroy Sanderson of East Waterford. He cut the stick last August, peeled it and hauled it on the hill on the first snow. It is 55 feet long, 17 inches at the butt and 6 inches at the top and has been painted. It sets on a solid ledge and is supposed to be firmly guyed in place. It is hoped are long the stars and stripes will float from the highest point of land in Norway and that we as a town will be literally living neath Old Glory.

Pennesseewassee Lodge, No. 18, K. of P., has just had some new by-laws printed.

Christian Temperance Union.

The Oxford County Woman's Christian Temperance Union opened its first session on the time appointed on Wednesday morning with the president, Mrs. E. A. G. Stickney of Brownfield in the chair and all other county officers were present, also three State officers. The church was prettily decorated with potted plants, Miss Willard's picture on an easel decorated with a beautiful silk flag, the banner presented to this county for securing the prohibition to its membership. On the wall at the right of the organ was hung the Oxford County W. C. T. U. banner and on the left was hung another banner with this inscription: "Prize Banner of the Maine W. C. T. U." The picture of Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens and underneath the date September 28, 1890. This banner like the other is made of white satin with gold letters and a gilt fringe. The prize banner was won by the county for securing the largest per cent. of new membership.

Mrs. A. W. Pottle of Buckfield led the opening devotional service. A very cordial welcome was given by Mrs. Leona E. Tobbs, president of the Norway Union, to the visiting convention which was responded to by Mrs. Eva R. Ordway of South Paris, in the absence of Isabelle H. Stickney of East Brownfield, who was unable to be present. Mrs. Ordway's response was full of complimentary remarks somewhat in the nature of a eulogy on the C. T. U. of Norway, and stated that it ranked in size next to Rumford Falls, the metropolis of Oxford county.

The county vice president-at-large, Mrs. A. W. White of West Paris, then took the chair while the president delivered her annual message. Mrs. Stickney is a very able and interested worker. Her message contained a few words of history of the Oxford County W. C. T. U. organization, followed by an interesting report of the State and National convention. A rising vote of thanks and appreciation was given her for her helpful and encouraging words. The president then read a message sent to this convention by the State and National president, Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens.

Reports from Bethel, West Paris, South Paris and Norway local presidents were then listened to, also reports of the county secretary and the treasurer. The treasurer's report showed an increase over and above the year before. A little more business was performed, when dinner in the vestry below was announced.

Noontide prayer was offered by Rev. L. Macduff of West Paris.

The afternoon session was opened and devotional exercises were led by Rev. A. W. Pottle of Buckfield, who asked the convention to join him in repeating the 23rd Psalm and offered prayer. Rev. Isaac M. Macduff gave an address, which was very interesting and instructive. Her subject was "What and Why." She chose to exchange the words and read it "Why and What," first telling why this organization exists and made a concise comparison between Vermont and Oxford County, showing the difference between the two.

Her native home was in New Hampshire and she was fully capable to tell of the working of the law of that state. The "what" of her address were points for each white ribboner to carry home and put into action.

Reports from the remaining local union presidents were given and then the children's hour arrived. 200 children from the schools came marching in carrying flags, a sight which the Oxford County W. C. T. U. convention never witnessed before in all its existence. All the teachers accompanied them and the superintendent of schools too. The children sang the chorus, "Praise ye the Lord," and then sang "The Lord is my Shepherd," which was a sweet and beautiful and the more so because it was unaccompanied by the organ. Rev. L. Alfreda Brewster gave them a very interesting talk to which they responded freely and showed intense enjoyment in listening to her. At the close of the talk one of the little boys, Merton Tower, sang a sweet little song entitled "A Bit of Love," and then the whole chorus sang America, under the direction of Mrs. Macduff, the teacher of music and drawing.

Wednesday evening the music was by a quartet of young people—Esther Tower, Lona Noble, Frank Moore and Mr. Robinson. The Scripture reading was by Rev. Miss Macduff and the prayer by Rev. L. Alfreda Brewster. The president introduced pastors, the Revs. Potte, Brooks, Baldwin and Davis, who gave their approval and encouragement to the ladies' work along the various lines of Christian temperance work. The address by Mrs. Gertrude Stevens Leavitt of Stroudwater was a practical talk and showed that the mantle of her mother, the president of the National W. C. T. U., was shared by the daughter in no slight measure. She began at first of all this movement is a Christian movement. The trunk of the tree is temperance and it branches out every way. One branch begins with the tiny infant and the mother may enroll the child in a department suited to his years till at six he may join the Loyal Legion. Then there is the school instruction, the mothers' meetings, the crusades against the saloons, the finding of homes for homeless children, the rescue department, the flower mission, the charity department, purity in lives, homes, reading and art, and numberless other good works that branch out from each branch and yet still continue to branch.

Thursday morning, the devotional service was led by Rev. Miss Brewster. The forenoon was given over to business largely. The reports of superintendents showed a gain all along the line and the central thought was that not one job or title of the ground gained was to be given over but new ways and means to advance the cause added. Less talk and more action seemed to be the watch-word. At 11.15 Mrs. E. W. Chandler of Bethel conducted a memorial service. The session's work closed by singing the County song and an adjournment. The meeting was held at the Universalist church at Norway and was largely attended.

F. E. Tower entertained the Norway branch of the festival chorus at his residence, Monday evening. A good rehearsal and everybody had a general good time.

New England Order of Protection.
The N. E. O. P. observed Children's night after the regular meeting, May 15. They entertained 200 Brook lodge of Paris besides many visitors and a large number of children. A fine supper was served after which an entertainment was given as follows:

- Duet, Violin and guitar.
- Ethel Millett and Howard Maxim Monologue, Marks, the lawyer, Guy Rogers Piano duet—Edwin and Howard Child Piano and dance.
- Brooks, Misses Locke, Barker, Millett, Nass and Brooks.
- Beryl Millett Solo.
- Song and clog dance.
- Marie Newton Piano solo.
- Candle Chant.
- Sketch, in a Restaurant, (Cull and Darcy).

Wanda Wood was chairman of the supper committee and Etta Gammon of the entertainment. After the entertainment games were played and a general good time enjoyed by all. The gathering broke up at a late hour, all voting Children's night a success and wishing that it might come often.

Children of the Night.
Where are the children of the night? To all the parents of our village who have their welfare in mind this is a pertinent question. Are they safe guarded in the home, or are they let to loiter on the streets and into far away and unfrequented places till late hours, subject to the unwholesome influences of the dark night, or are they over-protected? Profanity of speech, immoral stories greet their small ears in many places. Their young minds are especially susceptible to the things which lead to a sad waywardness. "Till a law of nature, wherever persistent and vigilant cultivation is neglected even for a little space, weeds and brambles creep in and flourish, bearing abundant crops. A charge to keep I have" should be the watchword of every parent. But we have a charge of the embryo citizen who shall help make or mar the good of the world. How can one father or mother remain indifferent to the whereabouts of the child or give up their right to their keeping to the hands of the angels of all things fine and honorable and clean!

Let us then as thinking citizens of Norway, who believe in making the world better and especially this small town of ours, have added interest in the lives of the children—watch over them by day—guard them jealously by night.

Don't let them wander wherever their uncultivated inclinations might lead. Let us lay hold of every help which may be given to assist in this worthy upbringing, and one of these would be a curfew law—"a very present help." Some citizen may object to it as being an added expense to the already burdened corporation. But we have a town clock to tell the limit of the hour; we also have an efficient night watchman to enforce the law. Shall we not have this much-needed assistance, and now?

Ralph I. Trask is to move upstairs in the J. T. Rowe rent.

The Advertiser will go to press on Wednesday, next week, because of Memorial. Advertisers and writers of news, please notice.

Fred H. Cummings caught a trout in Lombard brook, Friday, that would weigh about a pound and a half. It was thirteen inches long.

Norway Schools.

All village common schools close next week. The afternoon of Wednesday, May 29, is to be known as Visitors' Day. At this session the public is especially invited to visit the schools and inspect their work. Review exercises in the everyday work of the grades, including drawing and music, will furnish entertainment and a criterion by which to judge of the value of the school work. A large number of visitors are expected, and many attended, and went by invitation from room to room to see the work. This term the teachers plan to seat their visitors and keep them for the hour in the room they first visit. If you are interested in any child go to his room, see his work, and gladden his heart by your attendance.

Preparation for the school graduation, which is to be on June 6, goes on apace and the usual excellence of our graduation programs will be maintained. There are four hundred members of the class of 1907, ten girls and four boys.

Our schools have been invited to send an exhibit of work to the meeting of the State Association in September next, and will probably submit an exhibit of drawings selected from all the grades.

School on Frost Hill was interrupted last week by a death in one of the families but reopened last Monday morning. The other rural schools are past the middle of the term, which is in most cases nine weeks.

A One Week Show.
It has been a long while since a company has given such evenly balanced, pleasurable entertainments for an entire week as the Lorne Elwyn Co., with Gladys Grey as the star. The actors in the greater or lesser parts were all actors. Whether the characters were appropiated according to the strength of the players we know not, but they all came up to the requirements of the occasion. The specialties too were as pleasing in their way as the acting. Davis, the man who mystifies, gave "sleight of hand" performances that especially called many people to the hall, and little Baby June was an actor and singer to the back bone. The trick bicycle rider, a man who wheels "any old way" and on all sizes of wheels. Lorne Elwyn, the actor, who gives the name to the company, is the leading actor. Monday evening, they played Anita, the singing girl; Tuesday, Lena Rivers; Wednesday, A Royal Prisoner; Thursday, Unwritten Law; Friday, The Little Minister; Saturday, Sherlock Holmes. There will also be a matinee Saturday afternoon.

Return of a Favorite Company.
H. Price Webber's Boston Comedy Company have been having more than usual success with their new play, "Western Life," in Canada, where they have been playing the past winter. In a paper we read—"They played in the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, to what may be termed a standing room audience. The hall was filled to the doors. The play was well staged and well acted and it is not too much to say that it met with an enthusiastic reception. Edwina Grey, always a favorite with Waterloo audiences, found full scope for her capabilities as an emotional actress in the leading role, while Price Webber made a hit with the comedy part. The support was first rate and the performance everything that could be desired." This is the play that will be given in the Opera House, Thursday evening, May 30, and if Price does not "make good" it will be the first time in all the years he has brought a company to Norway.

Lauren A. Records has been nursing a smashed finger for the past six weeks. He got it jammed while pulling spikes on the railroad when working for Byron Leach.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church met last Wednesday evening to arrange for the District convention that is to meet with this chapter in June. Dr. Hamilton of Boston has been secured as the speaker of the convention.

Dr. A. B. Harvey of Bath has visited at Judge W. F. Jones' this week. Dr. Harvey has been settled as pastor of the Universalist church at Bath for twelve years. He is ex-president of the St. Lawrence University at Canton, N. Y.

Members of the W. R. C. will meet at G. A. R. hall, Sunday, May 26, at 9:15 to go to the Universalist church for Memorial service. All members are requested to wear white gloves and on Memorial day also. The members are also requested to bring food for Memorial dinner.

Edith Rankin, who has been stopping at the M. R. parsonage and doing Deacon work in town, has been called to Wilton for two or three weeks to do pastoral work for Rev. Mr. Ryder, who has been called away by the critical illness of a sister. Miss Rankin expects to return here to work through the month of June.

The Spanish War veterans will unite with the G. A. R. at Decoration day. The ranks of the Civil War veterans are growing thinner every year and the work of keeping alive the significance and traditions of this most solemn and impressive of all our National holidays will soon devolve on the comrades of the Spanish War veterans.

The funeral of Fred W. Pratt was held at his mother's residence at one o'clock last Friday afternoon, Rev. E. S. Cotton officiating. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends who paid their last adieu to the departed friend. The casket was literally buried beneath the beautiful floral tributes. Saturday morning the body was taken to Yarmouth to be interred beside that of his father.

High Pendexter's swiftness of decision and promptness of action are said to resemble those of the hero of his new book. A few years ago (not many, for Mr. Pendexter is still in the early thirties) he was teaching school in a Maine village to earn money to enter college. He received a telegram offering him a better salary to teach Latin and Greek in another Maine town. In three minutes he telephoned his answer of acceptance. Fifteen minutes later he was on his way to the new school. This person. As he entered the door of the high school at his new post he met a young woman leaving the building. "That girl," said Pendexter to himself, "shall be my wife." Then he went in and paid Greek and Latin with his authorities. But within the year that girl became Mrs. Pendexter. (New York Sun.)

SOUTH PARIS.

Smothered in Sand Bank.
Harold, the 13 year old son of Horace Tuttle who lives in the Whittemore school district, did not return home after school, Monday. His parents did not think strange of this as he often stopped with a brother who works for Mr. Lawrence in the same district.

Wednesday morning Harold was not at school and on investigating he was found buried in the sand bank some 8 or 10 rods from the school house, his feet sticking out of the sand. It seems that a hole had been dug in the bank and the sand caved in while the boy was playing in it and he was unable to get out.

Coroner Wm. J. Wheeler was called but an inquest was deemed unnecessary.

Memorial Services.
Sunday afternoon address by Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain before the Wm. K. Kimball Post, G. A. R. The General could not be here on Memorial day. This will be at the Baptist church at 2 o'clock. On Memorial day the graves will be decorated, and dinner will be served for the Post at G. A. R. hall. The Memorial sermon will be at the Baptist church by Rev. J. W. Chesbro, in the forenoon, Sunday.

The fence in front of Alva Shurtleff's has been removed.
The Delta Alpha party, Monday evening gave a silhouette party. Special value in ladies' russet Oxford at W. O. Frothingham's, also Vici kid Oxfords. Prices right and goods warranted.

A. L. Holmes of West Paris is to open a livery business in the Stuart stable, second block from the Baptist church, this Thursday.
The water pipe of the Norway Water Co., running from the square out Maple street to the cemetery, is being replaced with a larger one.

Arthur Stowell of Locke's Mills was in town the past week; George W. Frothingham was up from Portland; Mrs. J. R. Stanley of East Auburn at Mrs. C. W. Bowler's.

The mid-week prayer meeting at the Congregational church was omitted this week in order to permit the people to attend the W. C. T. U. convention and lecture at Norway.

Snow breaking appropriation for 1907 has been exhausted. No more of these bills can be paid until the town appropriates some money. If you have a snow bill hand it to the selectman of your section. See notice in this paper. Do it at once.

Mrs. Ella M. Keith of Worcester, Mass., will give a talk on "Domestic Science" in the vestry of the Congregational church Saturday, May 25th, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock. She will use a chafing dish, and will cook and serve eight or more dishes.

Mrs. Roxanna Elder had a paralytic shock last Tuesday and is in a critical condition. She has three sons, Nelson G. and George Elder of South Paris and Chas. R. Elder of Malden, Mass. The latter son arrived from Massachusetts Wednesday.

Delegates to attend the Universalist State Convention which convenes at Biddeford were chosen at this church Sunday and are Mr. and Mrs. S. Porter Stearns, Mrs. J. D. Haynes, Grace Thayer. Alternates, Doctor and Mrs. Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Park.

Work has been begun by the Norway Electric Street Railway—technically the Maine Water Power Co.—clearing away the wreckage at the old grain mill and getting ready to develop the power to use for making electricity. Some more fall than was used before will be gained by setting the power station farther down stream.

Eighty or more Knights of Pythias, including a large number from Norway, and a good number of the Pythian Sisters attended the services of Memorial Sunday. At 2 o'clock the graves of deceased Knights in Riverside cemetery were decorated, with singing by the male quartet and prayer by Rev. J. H. Little. The sermon was given at the Congregational church at 2:30, by Rev. E. A. Kimball of "Waterford," from the text "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." The central thought of the sermon was that our assurance of the existence of God and immortality, and all things that men hold most dear, must rest absolutely upon faith, that it is utterly impossible to demonstrate them by scientific, logical proof. It was entirely different from the sermons usually given to fraternal orders, having only in common the theme of brotherly fraternity. Mr. Kimball is a man of keen intellectuality, of what is sometimes called the advanced school of thought, decidedly original, it might almost be said unique, in his style, and his sermon has caused some comments. Some good people have felt almost as if they had brushed the foundations of their faith out from under them, but the general sentiment is of pleasure and admiration for the discourse.

NORWAY LAKE.
MacPhie and Smith.
The special religious services at Norway Lake, with Rev. Mr. MacPhie as preacher and Mr. Smith of Boston, for soloist began Tuesday evening, with a large audience out for the place. The subject was prayer which was treated in an able and interesting manner.

Mr. Smith is greatly enjoyed as a soloist and leader of the singing. These workers were here a year ago but made a very brief visit. Their work was of such high order and so highly enjoyed by the pastor, Rev. B. S. Kildout, and the people that it was desired by all interested that these good men return. They are here to do all the good possible. The people are coming out and everybody who can is earnestly invited to attend. The music will probably extend through the week.

Sunday, at 2:30 they will be at the Center church and remain there through next week. Meetings will begin at 7:30. It is hoped that the people will attend as well as last year, even if they are little late at the service.

Asa Frost is tearing down his stable and getting ready to build a new one. Mrs. and Mr. Colby Frost of Harrison visited at David Flood's, Wednesday.

SOCIETY DIRECTORY.

Pure White Lead is the Natural Paint Pigment

Numerous compounds are being offered to take the place of white lead as a paint, but no real substitute for it has yet been found. Pure White Lead has a peculiar property of amalgamating with the wood upon which it is used—added to this it has an elasticity which permits the paint to follow the natural expansion and contraction of the wood. Pure White Lead alone fulfills all the requirements of the ideal paint.

Red Seal Pure White Lead

Is White Lead with its full natural tenacity and elasticity unimpaired by adulterants. Every keg of it bears the Dutch Boy trade mark, which is a positive guarantee of absolutely Pure White Lead made by the Old Dutch Process.

The Simple Life.

I am tired of living "the simple life." It doesn't appeal to me. I don't want to live in a battle, or strife. I don't want to do anything to see. No charm do I find in "the simple life." I am a creature like me. Must dwell where action of some sort is rife, Or perish outright from "ennui." Or battle, murder and sudden. And other complexity. I never shall waste this mortal breath In and out to be kept free; I am hoping for anything under the sun To break the monotony. Ere a dithering, doddering simpleton, The "simple" will make of me.

CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

It Is Better to Live.

I have sometimes felt that the burden Of life was too heavy to bear; And have longed to lie down at the noontide And rest and forget all my care. But ever my heart comes the message, Repeated again and again: "It is better to live and to suffer, Than to die to be rid of the pain." There is rest in the darkness of dying, And rest to the weary despair. The grave holds sure peace and calm silence; No sorrow nor pain can be there. But perhaps in the struggle of living, Is a soul that has need of my care. Some heart may be beating in pain, That my hand may lighten or share. "T would be easy to say 'I am weary,' And lie down and give up the strife, To suffer no more with the heartache And sorrow I meet in this life; But perhaps from my sorrow-swept heart strings A melody sweet may be wrung, And my lips when they drop out of suffering The truest songs may have sung. 'Tis so hard to be patient with living When all the world is away; So wearisome waiting for pleasures That will only come after we die; But even through all my complaining I can hear that undying refrain: "Is there to live and to suffer, Than to die to be rid of the pain." I will live and be strong and will suffer, If need be, until I find rest, While life and life trials are over. Though never my life should be blest; Though should I be ever so blest, By the clouds that hang over my way, I will trust that the light will be clearer When at last I awake "in the day."

Children's Corner.

A Mute Appeal.

One day in New York city, as I was going along the streets, I saw a little girl and a pretty white dog coming along. Bye and bye a little dog having a basket tied to its neck and leading an old blind man came along. The girl stopped and fixing its eyes on the little girl's face, gave a low white as much as to say, "Won't you give me some money?"

The little girl stopped, dropped a quarter into the basket and went on. I followed her until she came to a large brown stone house on Fifth avenue. There she rang the bell and a colored butler came to the door. "May I see Blanche?" asked the little girl, whose name was May.

"Yes, miss, as soon as she is dressed," the man answered. Miss May went up to Blanche's room. Blanche was May's playmate. When she got to Blanche's room she knocked at the door and asked May in. "I'll be ready in a minute," said Blanche.

As soon as she was ready May told Blanche all about the dog she had met. As they were going back to May's house they met the same dog and man. May dropped a penny into the basket but Blanche did not drop in any.

As the girls went on May asked Blanche why she did not drop some money into the basket. Blanche said perhaps the man was rich and it would only be wasting it.

"I don't think so," said May. "That night I went to bed happy, but Blanche was disgusted with herself. The next morning Blanche came over to May's house and said, 'I think I will follow your example. When I met the same dog this morning I gave him some money and I feel happier for it.'"

Carriers Have Right of Way.

The postmaster general has issued an order or notice that all rural mail carriers have the right of way on all the country roads and that all other carriages or conveyances must surrender that right of way to the rural carriers. This was the rule when the mails were carried in four-horse stage coaches, and everyone had to get out of the way when the mail coach came along. It is a very serious matter for anyone to obstruct the rapid transportation of the United States mails. Get out of the road when the rural free delivery carrier comes along with Uncle Sam's mails.

Rheumatism Badly Cripples A Baldwinsville Farmer URIC-O Quickly Cured Him.

Treated 2 Years With a High-Priced Physician With No Success.

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in this country who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being discouraged, I let alone the sleepless nights and took it home and used it that day as directed. These fearful sciatic pains left me, my blood seemed to feel loose and flow freely. I felt different and knew the next morning I had found a cure. As I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used in all six bottles of URIC-O and have never crutches or cane since the first day's treatment. I have since recommended URIC-O to hundreds of friends and acquaintances and in every instance it gave remarkable relief. To every person who suffers from Rheumatism I say, take URIC-O at once and your suffering will soon end."

Anyone who doubts Mr. Howe's experience is invited to write to him for further details. The manufacturers have so much confidence in the remedy that they will gladly give a full 100 bottle of URIC-O free to all rheumatism who have never used it and are looking for a permanent, lasting cure for this most distressing disease. Address for free trial, Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

URIC-O is sold and recommended in Norway by the Noyes Drug Store.

The Paragraph Pulpit.

By EDWIN A. RUMBLE.

I want to say a few things this week about the church. The old notion that a church is a society of holy people, passing away, not because it should not, but because it was not. Another old notion, that the church is a body of holy people, certain doctrines are also passing away. There were such conflicting doctrines and so many churches that the best people kept out of the church altogether. The ideal church is neither holy or orthodox; if it were both, it would not be a church, but heaven.

The ideal church has a creed. We must believe something, what shall it be? Something which needs argument to prove it? No, but something which needs a life to prove it. It's creed is love; not sentimental love, but righteous love.

In the ideal church are more things than hymns, prayers and sermons. Spiritual instruction may well be continued on Sunday with this addition that the congregation should have the right to quietly ask questions of the minister after the sermon. It would make us ministers more careful what we say, and make us take care we understood it before we said it. The sermon would then be less of a "hit and run" performance. The church should be social; a circle is a good thing to abolish family feuds. Evenings should be devoted to improvement in literature, music and art. Further, as long as a minister does not abuse his position to partisan ends, political meetings also should have a place. The church should touch all sides of human nature and life and lift the whole man Godward. I have a deal more to say, but I will leave it till next week. Remember ideal is not a synonym for impossible.

Simple Way to Kill Catarrhal Germs in Nose, Throat and Lungs.

The only natural and common sense method known for the cure of catarrhal troubles is Hy-o-mel. It is breathed through an ingenious pocket inhaler, so that its medicated air reaches the most remote air-coils of the nose, throat and lungs, killing all catarrhal germs, soothing the irritated mucous membrane, and restoring a healthy condition.

Hy-o-mel goes right to the spot where the catarrhal germs are present in the nose, throat and lungs and destroys the germs so that perfect health is soon restored.

A complete Hy-o-mel outfit with inhaler costs but $1.00 and is sold by Frank Kimball, at the Noyes Drug Store, under guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy gives satisfaction. 19&21

The Story of Father John's

Half a century ago, Rev. Father John O'Brien of St. Patrick's Parish Lowell, Mass., through overwork and exposure, became seriously run down. A cold and stubborn cough and lung trouble threatened his life. An eminent specialist gave Father John, as he was fondly called, a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. Father John was soon restored to his former health and strength, and he recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends. Thus it became the family remedy in thousands of homes, and became known as "Father John's Medicine."

After the Fire.

The fire is a most disastrous one to the enterprising village of Harrison, as the larger part of the business is struck out of existence, and many men thrown out of employment. Some of the parties succeeded in getting temporary rents at once in which they can carry on their business on a limited scale until better quarters can be obtained.

There is a strong probability that the Odd Fellows, F. H. Ricker, Jordan Brothers and George Ross will rebuild as soon as possible, but considerable doubt was expressed in regard to the chain factory being rebuilt, at least for the present. Later advice may give a more cheerful outlook. With its largest manufacturing establishment and four stores in ruins, Harrison village presents rather a gloomy spectacle to its citizens, but it contains many enterprising people, who are not easily discouraged, and it will not be surprising if they prove able to meet the terrible calamity that has befallen them. Of course the blow is the hardest for C. S. Whitney, but "Sammy" is a hustler, and many friends who will be glad to assist him.

We well remember after the Norway fire when we were trying to raise money enough by subscription to buy a town hall to have placed on the Opera House then in the process of construction, that Mr. Whitney called at the office and unsolicited said as he handed us a five dollar bill, "You have had a bad fire, I am sorry, and I want to do a little something for you, though it is not much, I wish it was more."

The two enterprising lodges of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are without a home, and it will be some time at the best before a hall can be built. The Grangers, who have a home, immediately tendered its use to these lodges as long as they may wish to occupy it, and they gave up their banquet hall on the lower floor of their building to the drug store and clothing store, both of which start business in their new quarters at once, with the remnants of stock which were saved from the fire.

Spring Fishing.

How to Care for a Rod.

When the snow goes and the brown earth comes into view to be warmed by the spring sun till the grass shows green and when the buds swell on the trees and the tender leaves show on the willows, then is the time when the true fisherman thinks of his rods, and on an evening he is likely to be found jointing and unjointing the light split bamboo, looking carefully to the ferrules, the guides and the windings. It is seldom that he can refrain from trying a cast two on the lawn outside, just to feel the balance and spring and the kick of that favorite second joint as the wrist motion sends the line shooting out till it settles gently like a feather on the ground.

The stream, however, is not a bait rod, short, stiff and sturdy, one that can be handled in the bushes and that can derisk a pound trout out of a deep pool without showing the strain.

The brook fishing begins in earnest and while one has to journey farther and farther into the country for good or even fair sport the trains now-a-days make those journeys short and there are plenty of places where a man can go for a day and bring back a string of speckled beauties that will make him the envy of his fellows.

The people who make and repair rods are very busy with their spring work, and this is a sure sign of coming piscatorial enthusiasm.

All rods should have the greatest care, be they of solid wood, split bamboo, steel, says a writer in Outing. Scrape the rough places carefully with the sharp edge of a piece of broken glass, then varnish with good coach or piano varnish laid thinly on with a camel hair brush.

Examine carefully, that no crack or opening is seen in the bamboo and that the silk is not frayed or untied. If the latter, some fine red silk twist carefully wound will replace the frayed parts. The line to the part of the tip shows weakness extra ties can be wound over it and if the guides are loose they should be retied; also the ferrules, if only slightly loose, should be taken out, reset and reglued. Then true casting is made more sure.

Personally, I think the plated or silver mountings are a mistake. I do not keep mine polished bright for the reason that the flash in the act of casting sores both trout and bass, especially on bright sunny days when the water is clear and the time is near, I hope, when makers will produce a rod with mountings of sombre color.

In the proper care of lines one is apt to balk. It is too much trouble to untie and dry every time one returns from a hard day's fishing, and the most we do is to wind parts to test if any kinks are there. A silk unvarnished line is the worst to kink, so that it is impossible to untie after the season is over to take the lines from the reels and wind them on a large wheel.

A careful and prudent brother angler has devised a unique plan for winding his lines around a bicycle wheel after the hub has been removed. He places the bicycle upside down, he works the pedals and winds them through an oiled rag. This softens the lines and keeps them moist and pliable, as well as prevents cracking. I refer to the oiled rag and salmon line. Plain silk lines need only be well dried before winding.

Even the best and most expensive lines become weak and worthless through want of proper care and attention; it is impossible to prevent mildew or rot; unless a line is put away for the winter in ship-shape order. The sloven who throws his flies, leaders and lines all in a heap, with the idea of arranging them on arrival at the river finds himself very miserable and ill tempered, especially when in the company of friends who have kept waiting till his tackle is fit for work.

Tired Nervous Women Make Unhappy Homes

MRS. NELLIE MAKHAM

MRS. GEO. A. JAMES

A nervous irritable woman, often on the verge of hysterics, is a source of misery to everyone who comes under her influence, and unhappy and miserable homes result.

Such women not only drive husbands from home but are wholly unfit to govern children.

The ills of women are like a fire burning upon the nerves, consequently seven-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, the "blues", sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some organic derangement.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness alternating with extreme irritability? Do you suffer from pains in the abdominal region, backache, bearing-down pains, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, and almost continually cross and snappy? If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous troubles of women than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—

"I was a wreck from nervous prostration."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine in the world has ever been known, and thousands of testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

The Health of the Schoolgirl.

In May the graduating classes in all our schools, academies, colleges and universities have completed their course that is to go through the closing exercises and pass all their examinations with credit to themselves and to merit the appreciation of instructors and the admiration of parents and friends who are ready to congratulate and flatter the youthful candidates who win graduating honors.

Often times has the author been consulted by mothers of school girls from 15 to 20, who are failing in health in their last year of school work and who in the words of the anxious mother, it was feared would break down before they finished their school course. They often brought the youthful patient to be examined, and the demand was not what was best for permanent health, but the young lady's health and insure her strength of mind and body to meet the demand of a future, often taxing, life work, but for something to tone her up and serve as a pair of crutches on which to lean during the time of her school work.

A physical examination by the physician showed that there was blood bristling and every structure of the body was boggy and flabby, and other needed food elements which the impoverished blood failed to provide. The nervous system was exhausted and with no energy to keep the brain in normal working order. There was inability to do normal mental work and to get the daily lesson required forced mental effort and lengthened hours of study out of school, which was using up the girl's reserved nerve and mental capital and making deep inroads into the future, and insuring a life failure instead of success.

The question of why 42 per cent. of these women are well educated while only 18 per cent. of men are, is reported as having the same degree of education is considered by these defenders of the old system of limiting woman's mental culture and range of employment as valuable proof for making laws restricting female education to certain lines and subjects which will not overstrain and overtax their feeble minds and bodies. "The interests of future generations."
